The application would dynamically generate efficient and lightweight image placeholders during build time, via the API, and to substitute them in place of original images. Both a Base64 or a CSS Placeholder could be used as required the end-user.

WHATSTER | LINK

React, Express, MongoDB, Twilio API

This project was under the Top 20 projects in Twilio + Dev.to Hackathon. It included a Whatsapp capable of storing the user messages and responding to user's commands via the webhook. Used various APIs including Sendgrid Email Service, Clarifai Image Recognition API and Jokes API. The user could also view his stored files using the web client.

MURLS | LINK

Preact, Django, PostgreSQL, Azure VM

The application was an advanced URL Redirector. The server would store the urls provided by the user via the Mobile App or the Web Extension and also display the metrics for a particular url. The server would also redirect a boosted url faster. The Web Extension would get the url of the current tab and save it directly to the user's account.
